Isabelle Tellier ☐ Alain Bensoussan (Paris)

Marie-Hélène Tonnellier ☐ +33 1 56 59 74 74 ☐ Latournerie Wolfrom & Associés (Paris)

After ten years at Moquet Borde and Jeantet law firms, Marie-Hélène Tonnellier became a partner of Latournerie Wolfrom & Associés. She specialises in computer, telecommunications, information technology and e-commerce, and general entertainment law.

Marie-Hélène advises a number of telecommunications operators concerning their licensing and regulatory framework, the drafting and negotiation of commercial contracts with other operators, such as the interconnection agreements, and the general and particular conditions for the delivery of telecommunications services using new technology, such as ADSL or wireless local loop.

Her work includes advising on all aspects of the internet and e-commerce. The firm is very active in the technology field and Marie-Hélène advises brick-and-mortar industrial or service companies which develop their online services.

She combines her traditional skill and knowledge of the audio-visual and music industries with the new economy. For instance, she has been involved in the launch of a number of television channels and audio-visual programs on the net and via ADSL, WAP, and so on.

Marie-Hélène advises leading software companies and others in the drafting and negotiation of complex computer contracts, such as outsourcing, facilities management or integration contracts.

Marie-Hélène is frequently invited to speak at a variety of seminars relating to the above matters, and she writes many articles in various publications. In particular, she wrote studies of the internet and e-commerce for the 'Dictionnaire Permanent Droit des Affaires'.
